

Student Activities At CLC

Although the College of Lake County will open its doors to students for the first term this September, preparations are already being made for athletic events and for a wide variety of other student activities. This is the word from CLC Dean of Student Services, Dr. Russell O. Boyer.

A full basketball schedule with other colleges includes 18 games for the winter season. Nine of these will be home games and will be played in gyms at Antioch, Grant, Grayslake, Lake Zurich, Libertyville, Mundelein, North Chicago, Warren and Zion-Benton.

Eleven schools will participate in the schedule. Set are teams from Rock Valley College, Rockford; Kenosha Technical Institute, Kenosha; McHenry County College; Triton College, River Grove; Prairie State College, Chicago Heights; Junior Varsity, Parkside Campus of the University of Wisconsin, Kenosha; William Rainey Harper College, Palatine; Thornton Junior College, Harvey; College of DuPage;

Carthage College, Kenosha; and Great Lakes Naval Training Center. Dr. Boyer said plans are being made to offer track, baseball and tennis in the spring; golf and cross country during fall; and wrestling to augment basketball in winter. He said these will be scheduled based on student interest and facilities. He added that the coaching staff is presently being selected from the faculty.

In addition to the sports schedule, Dr. Boyer said activities on campus will include student government, newspaper and yearbook, debate and speech, dramatics, and other clubs and organizations which may be desired by the student body. He stressed that all such activities should reflect the interests and efforts of the college students.

"As part of our policy on rights and responsibilities of students at CLC, we recognize that students bring to the College a variety of interests and develop new interests while members of the academic community. We encourage them to form associations to promote their common interests. And except for sectarian organizations which may be formed, campus organizations will be open to all students without respect to race, creed or national origin."

Dr. Boyer explains that this policy has taken on increased significance in light of activities on campuses across the country. The policy states that freedom to teach and freedom to learn are "inseparable facets of academic freedom." All members of the academic community shall be free to support their convictions by means which do not violate the laws of the land, individual rights and freedoms nor disrupt the regular operation of the College.

The policy also states that members of the academic community and their respective organizations may invite and hear persons of their choosing in or on College facilities made available for this purpose. However, the policy goes on to note that (Continued on page three)

Emmons Tax Referendum Ends In Tie--66--66

The voters of Emmons School District failed to come to a decision on a 21-cent hike in the educational tax Saturday when the vote turned out to be a tie of 66 for and 66 against.

Technically the tie vote defeated the issue, but it can be done over again after 60 days.

If the board decides to go for the 21 cent hike again, and the school is in dire need of the money, a new election would come about in late July or August.

The referendum would have boosted the educational tax rate to $1.45 per $100 of assessed valuation.

Last March 22 the voters in the district voted favorably for a hike of 21 cents, boosting the rate from $1.03 per $100 of assessed valuation to $1.24.

At that time they knew that the board was going to ask for a second hike.

Under the $1.24 rate now in force the maximum amount of educational taxes extended was approximately $62,684.

Had the referendum been successful last Saturday the extension would have amounted to approximately $73,300.

The tax hike was needed, school officials said, to keep the school in operation.

The only other alternative is to annex to a surrounding school district, most likely Antioch, if the system is unable to get a favorable vote on the issue if the referendum is again sought.

Lakewood Preserve subcommittee of the Lake County Forest Preserve District's development and maintenance committee recently inspected the grounds. Subcommittee chairman Supervisor Ronald R. Coles, of Lake Villa, centers, with County Forester Robert Towler. Other members are, from left, Mrs. Lillian Wirtz, Fremont Township, Mrs. Maude Stickels, Libertyville Township, Mrs. Betty Lou Reed, West Deerfield Township and Mrs. Kay Lerche, District secretary.

Antioch Man Dies In Crash

Arthur O. Frisell, Jr., 52, Rt. 3, Box 190, Antioch, was fatally injured Wednesday night when his pickup truck was rammed by another on Rte. 173, a mile west of Lake Avenue in Antioch Township.

The crash occurred at 9:36 p.m. Wednesday and Frisell died at 2:23 a.m. Thursday in Victory Memorial Hospital, Waukegan.

William L. Both, Jr., 30, of RFD 3, Box 290, Antioch, driver of the other truck, was taken to Victory for treatment but refused to give any statement before talking to his attorney, Lake County Sheriff's deputies said.

Deputies said Frisell's truck, going east on Rte. 173, was apparently making a left turn when it was struck in the right side by Both.

Both's truck, deputies said, left 180 feet of skid marks before the point of impact.

Detail Con-Con Process

Last November, Illinois voters capped their state's sesquicentennial birthday party by authorizing a Constitutional Convention to modernize out-dated century-old state constitution.

The celebration is now over. Illinois is getting back to business, and business means making Con-Con a reality.

To implement the people's mandate, the Illinois senate passed—and Governor Richard B. Ogilvie signed into law—Senate Bill 193 which provides for a Constitutional Convention to convene December 8, 1969, in Springfield. More important, according to the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce, this new statute gives you, as a citizen, a voice in re-shaping our outmoded constitution.

First, you can vote—vote twice, in fact—for convention delegates. The new law provides for a primary election to be held Sept. 23, 1969, and a general election Nov. 18. At this second election, two members will be elected from each of the state's 58 senatorial districts. The state is to bear election expenses.

With the primary election only four months away, there is something you can start thinking about and doing right now—a way to get involved before the delegate election. You can seek out, encourage and help elect citizens of ability, integrity and honesty from our districts to run as candidates for convention delegates.

The election itself will be conducted on a nonpartisan basis—no political party designation is to appear on the ballot. The law further states that no other election or referendum will be held simultaneously with the convention election.

Once elected, each delegate, except the convention president and vice president, is to receive $625 per month for a period not to exceed eight months. The president will receive $1,500 per month and the vice president $1,200 per month, both for a period not to

EDITORIAL

We Remember

This Friday is Memorial Day and once again we will pause to do homage to those who have died in battle so that our country could remain free.

And even though we only observe the memory publicly on one day out of the year, in most of our hearts we do observe it all year round.

These young men who go out to do our battles for us should be honored, but it is too bad that we wait until they are dead to do so.

Antioch is one community that does not forget its servicemen any day of the year and we can be proud of the program that has provided the little pleasures in life for our servicemen in Vietnam—mainly that of being remembered.

So, we pause in our everyday activities to give honor to those who have fallen in battle, and in our hearts we have a fervent wish.

No more war is the battle cry that most of us would like to shout, rather than add another name to that long list that have already given up their final gift, their lives.

And maybe that will be the best gift that our servicemen can give us by their sacrifices—no more war.

We sincerely hope so.

Safe Once Again

Once again the nation can breathe a collective sigh of relief!

Our astronauts are back safe and sound once again.

The Apollo 10 group splashed down about 3 miles from its recovery ship Monday—and that in itself is a marvelous feat.

All of us, we are sure, hold our breath when we have one of these moon shots.

And even those of us who wonder why anyone would want to go to the moon in the first place are relieved when the astronauts come back home.

We realize that each trip is needed if the United States is going to make the moon but we wonder why the pair who left the space craft and went 10 miles from the moon's surface didn't go down and get it over with.

We believe that if we—heaven forbid—would have been in the module that went down to scan the moon and came that close, we might have been tempted to continue on down and be first.

But now that Apollo 10 is safely back the U. S. citizenry will get set to hold their breath again.

And the next one will be the big one.

Illinois Needs More Doctors

The President of the Illinois Medical Society recently issued a strong statement calling for a dramatically stepped-up program to have more doctors in the state.

Dr. Philip G. Thompson's unusual statement squarely faces the realities in Illinois. He notes, among other things, that Illinois medical schools graduated 40 fewer last year than in 1934, when he got his diploma.

"We cannot afford the luxury of time," he stated. "America had a crash program in World War II which doubled the annual output of doctors. We need the same thing now."

Not only are there fewer physicians and dentists, as he points out, but because of the increasing specialization there are fewer and fewer in the areas of greatest need.

Here are some examples which I have seen:

1. A teacher in an inner-city situation said none of her second-grade students had been to a dentist until she took them to a dental school. Some of their teeth were in unbelievably bad shape. There are no dentists in the area of the school.

2. A few weeks ago I visited the community of Robbins, population 9,500. They have no physician and very limited transportation facilities. The death rate at birth in Robbins is double that for the rest of the county where it is located.

3. Pembroke Township in Kankakee County has 12,000 citizens and a physician only two days a week.

At least once a month some community calls to tell me its desperate plight. O'Dell, Illinois—along Highway 66—had a sign up for months that it needs a doctor.

Dr. Thompson suggests that the medical schools must be used better—that they are producing fine research people, but not nearly enough family doctors.

He also feels that the medical schools should have more programs to help keep the physician in the small community abreast of the latest developments.

What the outspoken doctor says makes a great deal of sense. He calls the recent report to the Illinois Board of Higher Education to gradually increase the number of doctors as excellent but "too gentle with time."

I come from a community of 1,800 which has the good fortune to have two excellent physicians. But many small communities have none, and many sections of our cities are woefully lacking.

The Illinois Medical Society's President makes sense in what he says.

Your Congressman Reports....

By Cong. Robert McClory

The status of Washington, D. C., the 8th largest city in our nation, will be changed radically if legislation proposed by President Nixon is enacted.

Our nation's capital originally occupied 100 square miles of ground ceded by the States of Maryland and Virginia, fulfilling the mandate of Article I of the United States Constitution. Later, that part of the District lying South of the Potomac was ceded back to the State of Virginia. Today, only about 61 square miles of territory remain in our capital city. Washington's population is now more than 850,000.

The Constitution also provides that the Congress shall "exercise exclusive Legislation in all Cases whatsoever over such District."

This language has been interpreted—since 1870—to require the United States Congress to serve as a sort of City Council for Washington, D. C., legislating with respect to every detail of its municipal government. While a so-called Mayor and City Council have been appointed by the President under a recent law, these appointed officials assume a very limited—administrative role subservient to the superior authority of the Congress.

Another anomaly is the denial to Washington, D. C., residents of another basic right of citizenship, i.e. representation in the U. S. Congress. Indeed, it was not until 1964 (following the adoption of the 25th Amendment to the Constitution) that Washington, D. C. residents gained the right to vote—for President and Vice-President.

Citizens should realize that, notwithstanding the outcome of "Home Rule" for the City of Washington, the White House, the Capitol, the Archives and all of the many properties and activities located within the boundaries of our Nation's capital city will remain forever under exclusive Federal control.

In addition to recommending home rule (an elected Mayor and City Council for Washington, D. C.), President Nixon has recommended a Constitutional amendment to give the District of Columbia representation in the United States Congress. Although Washington's population of 850,000 is larger than that of 11 of our 50 states, still our capital city has no voice in either the U. S. House of Representatives or Senate.

President Nixon's recommendation is for the election of one or two members of the House of Representatives (consistent with the District's population), and for the naming of possibly two Senators—as in the case of the states. Such a constitutional amendment will require the approval of two-thirds of the members of the U. S. House and Senate, as well as ratification by the legislatures of three-fourths (39) of the States.

Representation of the District of Columbia in the United States Congress would permit the focusing of attention on the peculiar needs and status of the seat of our Federal Government. The continued denial of such representation would appear to be most inequitable and unwelcome. Even with 535 members of both the House and Senate considering now that they have a responsibility for the future of our nation's capital, there is not the clear, distinct and significant "voice" articulating the problems of Washington and suggesting the solutions which can and must be forthcoming. However, members of the U. S. House and Senate—if elected from and for the District of Columbia—could and would perform this needed role of spokesman and intermediary.

Opposition to President Nixon's such speakers should not advocate actions which are illegal or contrary to College rules and regulations and local, state and federal law. Further, students at CLC will be encouraged to individually and/or collectively express their views on institutional policy as well as matters of general student interest through their representative student association. Dr. Bloyer said the administration will make a concentrated effort to continually involve student members of the academic community in decisions which could affect the students.

He further emphasized that CLC administrators believe that self-discipline is an important facet of education and that students should be responsible for their own conduct.

Dr. Bloyer notes several actions which will be considered violations of College standards for student conduct and which could result in serious disciplinary action or dismissal: —Threatening the life or physical safety of self or others. —Preventing or attempting to prevent any student, faculty member or official College visitor from attending class, participating in College activities or otherwise carrying out his duties or obligations. —Intentionally impeding normal pedestrian traffic within the College Campus. —Inflicting damage to College equipment or facilities. —Violating any conditions of probation. —Academic dishonesty.

Each member will also be paid $75 for each day, not to exceed 100 days; that he is in attendance, a mileage allowance and a $120 postage allotment. (The bill also sets out a procedure for the convention and appropriates $2,880,000 for salaries and ordinary contingent expenses.)

The law provides that once your elected delegates have organized themselves into working Con Con units, you have the right to voice your opinions at the various public hearings on every aspect of our constitution. Based on these hearings—and your participation in them—the convention will make its report to the people of Illinois. It will then be your job to evaluate the Con Con report and vote a third time, this time on the convention's final recommendations.

This last vote may be one of the most important in your life, because the outcome of this election will daily affect the lives of you, your children, your grandchildren... and perhaps beyond. Why? You wouldn't run a modern industrial state on a rufed, century-old rural state constitution.

Memorial Traffic...

The traffic load is expected to reach its peak between 4 and 9:30 p.m. Sunday, June 1, when the majority of holiday drivers are expected to be returning to the area.

These estimates take into consideration that the majority of people will be able to take advantage of a three-day holiday and will extend their travel limits considerably.

Sims cautioned holiday motorists to have their cars and tires thoroughly checked before leaving home. He offered these Chicago Motor Club vacation tips:

—Set a reasonable limit on daily driving. Never drive when you are tired or drowsy.

—Start early and stop early.

—If you will be driving on expressways or tollways, know exactly which entrances and exits you will be using before starting.

—Don't drive too fast or too slow, but keep up with the flow of traffic.

—When driving on expressways, fight highway hypnosis by allowing plenty of fresh air to enter your car, and making frequent stops for rest and comfort.

program will be tenacious and well organized. Property rights and the prospect of an all black city government may well be in the background of much of this opposition. However, one thing is clear. Self-government for the City of Washington, D.C., and Congressional representation for its 650,000 residents are equitable and just.

All who pride themselves as advocates of self-government should be in the vanguard of support for this part of President Nixon's "Forward together" program.

NI-Gas Urges Check Of Cooling Unit

The best time for homeowners to check their home's gas central air conditioning system is in the spring, before the advent of hot, humid summer weather.

This suggestion comes from Northern Illinois Gas Company air conditioning experts who point out that installing contractors are busiest during hot spells, and have difficulty scheduling start-up or service calls. The same is true, they add, of NI-Gas customer service representatives.

The changeover from central gas heating to central gas cooling is easy, they say, especially if the cooling unit's pilot light and electrical circuits were left on in the fall.

They suggest setting the thermostat a few degrees lower than the home's existing indoor temperature, and then moving the selector switch to "Cool." Let the unit operate long enough to assure it is delivering cool air properly through the home's ducts and registers, and then return the thermostat to the desired temperature.

Owners of natural gas central air conditioning system should refer to their homeowner's manual for complete instructions on care and use. They may contact their nearest NI-Gas office for answers to questions and for service.

Bill Would Plug Big Tax Loophole

A bill designed to plug a tax loophole that has deprived Illinois communities of millions of dollars in revenue during the past decade is expected to come up for consideration in the State Senate during the next week.

The measure, HB 329, would tax property leased to commercial and industrial occupants by such tax-exempt owners as universities, colleges and a railroad. At present no property tax is paid on this real estate. The drive to enact legislation eliminating the abuse is headed by Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton, sponsor of the proposal, and Rep. Robert F. McParlin of Chicago's 18th District, who introduced the bill. The bill passed the House, 141 to 10, after winning approval in the House Revenue Committee, 26-5.

Cullerton estimates that Cook County communities are currently losing about a quarter of a million dollars a year on five properties alone that are leased by major private companies. "Unless we curb this tax-avoidance scheme now," he said, "the proposed construction of skyscrapers in the development of air rights along one section of Chicago's lake front could cost the city $35,000,000 a year in lost taxes."

McParlin said he is disturbed over the inequality of the present situation as far as the small taxpayer is concerned. "The average property owner pays his fair share to support local government," he pointed out, "and there is no reason why these giant firms can't do the same. Unless the Legislature plugs this loophole before it gets any bigger, an unfair burden could be placed on the back of the average property owner."

The tax exemptions in question were provided in special charters issued by the General Assembly more than a century ago. The purpose was to provide financial relief for educational institutions.

"We don't question the tax exemption where property is being used for educational purposes," Cullerton said. "This was the intent of the charters and we agree with it. However, you can't justify the exemption when it is applied to property that a university or college leases out for commercial or industrial use. It becomes nothing more than a tax dodge. These people aren't paying their share of the bill for police and fire protection and other municipal services. In Cook County there are five large business properties where the tax bills should range from $30,000 to $75,000 a year. Instead, because of this 100-year-old exemption, nothing is paid. To make matters worse, the properties were built to specifications provided by the present tenants as part of a lease agreement. The five lease arrangements occurred over a period of only a couple of years, which demonstrates how the practice can mushroom. This is premeditated tax evasion. It also constitutes an unfair competitive advantage—for either the tenant (who has a lower operating cost because he doesn't have to pay taxes), the owner (who can charge lower rents), or both.

The situation becomes downright frightening when you consider the potential development of the air rights on the lake front. If this became leased property and hence non-taxable, we would then have the situation of a tax-free island right in the center of the Loop. We could be deprived of an estimated $35,000 a year in property taxes, and it would reduce the taxable element in our rolls to the point where the burden would be impossible. A chain reaction would be felt throughout Illinois, as the need for more state tax money in Chicago would cut into the state funds that would be available for school districts and local governments."

McParlin said the legislation technically would impose a use tax in lieu of a real estate tax. This would avoid any legal entanglements arising from the granting of the original charters. The use tax would be equivalent to what real estate taxes should be. He said the use tax would apply solely to the commercial or industrial user of the otherwise tax-exempt property and would not apply to the university or college owning the property.

"Unless this tax-exempt status is corrected," McParlin concluded, "any university or college that is covered by such a charter could acquire additional industrial plants, commercial building and other income producing properties which would automatically become exempt, thereby shifting the tax burden on to homeowners and other property owners."

Susan Lindblad, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Lindblad of Antioch, is graduating June 7 from Western Illinois University with a BA in Elementary Education. She will be teaching this fall in Springfield.

Library Bill Is Passed By House

Secretary of State Paul Powell, State Librarian, announced today that House Bill 920A providing for an annual appropriation of $5,047,093 to be distributed to the 18 library systems and $400,000.00 which will be allowed to the four Research and Reference Centers was passed by the House of Representatives. The latter appropriation of $400,000.00 will be equally divided between the Chicago Public Library, University of Illinois Library, Southern Illinois University Library and the Illinois State Library, which make up the Research and Reference Centers.

Distribution to the 18 library systems is based on 40¢ per capita of the population served per most recent federal census, plus $5 per square mile if area served is in only one county such as Chicago, or 15¢ per square mile if area served is in two or more counties.

"Since the free public libraries are vital agencies serving all levels of the educational process, and since the state has financial responsibility in promoting public education," said Powell, "state policy dictates that continuance of our support in aiding and maintaining establishment of a network of public library systems, coupled with the four research and reference centers, is an important function of the Secretary of State."

Following passage of the public Library Development Act in 1965 public libraries have benefited outstandingly and have increased their circulation, in some instances, twofold.

Driver Education

Illinois ranks second among larger states in the nation in student participation in driver education. Of the more than 402,000 students in our high schools eligible for such training, only 139,000 participate. Officials hope for 100 per cent participation within the next two years.

Leading the states with student participation of 100,000 or more is Michigan with 153,000 eligible students and 153,000 participating.

Next to Illinois comes New York with 153,000 out of 193,000 eligible students, or 80 per cent participation. Fourth in the larger states category is California with 231,000 participating out of an eligible 312,000; next is Pennsylvania with 99,700 participating out of 170,700 or 58 per cent; Ohio sixth, has 53 per cent participation, while Texas, with 193,000 eligible students, has only 70,000 enrolled, or 36 per cent participation in the program.

Currently 1,990,000 students in the United States participate in driver training out of an eligible 3,080,000. In Illinois driver training must be offered under the law, but individual school districts determine if the courses shall be compulsory or required for graduation.

GOOD CITIZENS BUILD BETTER COMMUNITIES

Citizenship involves more than casting a ballot, attending a civic club meeting, and obeying the law.

Citizenship means wholehearted, day-to-day support of both government and the civic and philanthropic agencies which work for community improvement.

Student Auto Mechanics Will Compete

The 1969 Plymouth Road Runner has been selected as the car that the nation's top student auto mechanics will use in competition at the National Finals of the Plymouth Trouble Shooting contest.

A record 103 teams will compete in this year's event, which will be held June 16-18 at the famed Indianapolis "500" Speedway.

The contest consists of two competitions: a written exam worth 30 per cent of a team's final score, and a mechanical challenge worth 70 per cent. In the mechanical competition, teams race the clock and each other to find and fix several identical malfunctions deliberately placed under the hoods of the new cars by Plymouth engineers.

John H. Moore, Jr., national manager of the contest, said that every Plymouth Road Runner used in the contest will be equipped with a 383-cubic-inch engine, a 4-barrel carburetor, automatic transmission and power steering. "Each school that has a team competing in the finals will receive a 4-barrel carburetor within the next few days for the boys to practice on," Moore said.

The 103 cars used at the National Finals will be painted in four new bright colors now available on Road Runner—Vitamin "C" Orange, Bahama Yellow, Performance Red and Ray-Lye Green.

"The contest will be colorful as well as exciting," Moore said. Some 2,000 high schools and colleges in all 50 states are taking part in this year's contest. Contestants are competing for $125,000 worth of scholarships and awards.

Each participating school selects two auto shop students for its Trouble Shooting team. Teams compete in one of 103 local contests. Winners of the local events come to the National Finals in Indianapolis in June. Purpose of the Plymouth Trouble Shooting Contest is to encourage mechanically-minded young men to continue their education and to seek rewarding careers as auto mechanics.

Roger Otto Has 2 Wins At Wilmot

Speed week and the 1969 season of modified stock car racing opened Saturday night at the Kenosha County Speedway in Wilmot. In honor of the double event, Roger Otto, defending champion, took two wins as he swept the 30 lap feature and his heat race.

In spite of the opening night activities, the excitement and thrills were at midseason level. Jr. Dodd of Waukegan started off the night with a 17.00 second time trial to equal the track record set on opening night last year by Whitely Harris.

In the feature race Jr. Dodd hit a wheel tossed from the car driven by Bob Deldrich of McHenry and this sent Dodd for the first flip of the 1969 season. Although he was unable to continue, he was OK, but the A4 modified damage will keep the crew busy for the next few evenings. This mishap was the second red flag incident and reduced what had started out to be a full feature field with Otto, Eddie Loomis and Denny McKay supplying the hard charging action that brought fans to their feet on each lap.

Speed week action continues on Thursday night, May 29 at Wilmot with a Ladies Powder Puff race being added to the Indy Eve race action. Speed week concludes on Saturday, May 31 with a May Championship race.

Smothers To Enter Dragster

Dickie Smothers of the Smothers Brothers TV comedy team has announced entry in the "Smothers Brothers" super-charged nitro fuel dragster in the Memorial Day weekend "Olympics of Drag Racing" at the Great Lakes Dragway, Union Grove, Wis., May 29-30-31 and June 1.

Five time National Champion Don Garlits of Seffner, Florida, will handle the driving chores.

Smothers selected Garlits to campaign the dragster because of his experience and ability to win the major events. With Garlits at the wheel, the sleek racer has recorded speeds in excess of 230 mph.

The "Olympics of Drag Racing", for years has lured the nation's top ranked cars and drivers. This 13th annual meet is no exception with practically every nationally known driver already entered.

Track promotion manager, Bob Metzler, feels there is no clear-cut favorite but that a speed in excess of 230 mph will be needed to win.

The cherry birch, also called black birch, provides furniture manufacturers with an excellent wood, just as hard as mahogany. Formerly an oil was extracted from it that was used to flavor candy and medicines. Another product of the cherry birch in bygone days was birch beer, made from the tree's sap.

Valedictorian Has High Grades

Lynne Grams, valedictorian of the graduating class at Central High School with a grade point average of 94.7 will attend the University of Indiana.

Lynne was active in Forensics, Pep Club, 3 year varsity cheer leader and was an "A" winner at the State Forensics. Miss Grams is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dormund Grams of Paddock Lake. Her father is Biology Instructor, Basketball, and Golf coach at Central High.

Miss Barbara Terry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jon Terry of Brighton and a graduating senior of Central High School has received a scholarship of $300—part tuition and a grant to attend Cardinal Stritch College in Milwaukee. Each year that Barbara maintains a certain average she will continue to receive the $300.

Barbara will major in Math at Cardinal Stritch from which she received the scholarship.

Gary Gillmore, a sophomore at Central High School at Paddock Lake has been named among Wisconsin's top high school mathematics students after a statewide contest.

Winners were announced by Henry D. Snyder of the University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee. About 27,000 students representing 350 high schools participated in the preliminary examination on February 13. The final contest taken by 1208 students from 230 schools.

The contest is designed to identify and reward outstanding mathematics students early in their careers, so they can be encouraged to continue their studies in mathematics or related fields.

Gary placed in the 90 percentile, which means that of every 100 students he is one of the top ten.

Buckle Up

Failure to use seat belts while driving may become costly in more ways than one.

Seat belt proponents continually point to the thousands of deaths and disabling injuries recorded on the nation's highways each year as the high price motorists are paying for not buckling up.

The motorists, however, apparently have only been half listening. A recent study indicated that as many as two-thirds of the nation's drivers and passengers use their seat belts "only part of the time."

But now it appears that state officials may have their say about the matter. And their approach will be costly too—through the pocketbook.

There is increasing evidence of mounting pressures among states to make seat belt use mandatory, and to impose fines on violators.

Going one step further, juries in some states are reducing the amount of damages awarded in personal injury suits because the plaintiff showed "negligence" in not wearing a seat belt.

In Indiana recently, a driver was arrested for not having his seat belt fastened. His guilty plea in court drew a fine of $18.75.

The Indiana state law contained a phrase that the belts were installed for use, which the arresting state trooper and judge interpreted as placing a responsibility on the driver to buckle the belts while operating his vehicle.

An official of one of the nation's largest auto insurance companies reports that his files clearly show that juries are denying or reducing damage awards for persons who suffer injuries "in excess of what they would have received if they had been wearing seat belts" at the time of the accident.

In a Sheboygan County, Wis., case, for example, the judge told the jury "It must be clear that the Wisconsin Seat Belt statute contemplates the use of such belts when the car is equipped with them."

Weighing the judge's words, the jury found the seat beltless plaintiff "10 per cent negligent" and reduced the award for his injuries by that amount.

While Illinois law doesn't require that seat belts be used, it is mandatory that all 1965 model and new cars be equipped with the safety devices.

Two-Year License Plates Wins Okay

Legislation providing for two-year passenger car licenses was overwhelmingly passed by the House of Representatives. Secretary of State Paul Powell has announced.

The series of bills, sponsored by Representative Clyde Choate, would establish a two-year license plate for passenger cars, beginning in 1971, Secretary Powell said.

The measure, supported by Secretary Powell, is designed to save the state approximately 10 million dollars every two years, with no increase in taxes.

With the two year license plate system the individuals who pay $8.00 a year would pay $18 for the two year period. The highest plate which costs $24.00 a year, would be $48 for the two years, but there would be no increase in fees.

Under this measure, in addition to saving money, the state would also collect interest for the entire year on the portion of the fees representing the second year of the period, Powell said.
